How often have you compared initial project bid prices with final project costs and wondered why such increased costs? How often has early maintenance, repair and placement costs caused increased maintenance expenditures?

As director of CONDEL, an association of union contractors who have agreements with the various unions throughout Delaware, I am pleased to recommend the affiliated unions of the Delaware Building & Construction Trades Council.

I assure you these union contractors will give you work of the highest quality within your time-frame and at a competitive cost. In simple words, work done on-time, on-budget, and right the first time.

The pledge above can be made because we firmly believe in a trained, skilled workforce utilized by our members supplied to us by the Delaware Building & Construction Trades Council and their affiliated unions.

If you have a need or interest in quality building and construction, please call the Delaware Building & Construction Trades Council at (302) 892-9600 or any affiliated union.

Sincerely,

John D. Daniello
Executive Director
